

February 27, 2015

Hotel Suite of the Week:

New York City's Upper East Side is known for its ultra-luxe hotels. Nestled among the townhouse that call the neighborhood home is the Hotel Plaza Athénée. Pictured here is the hotel's foyer. Home to 120 guestrooms and suits, the Penthouse Duplex Suite is among the most luxurious, with a starting price of $5,900 per nights

The hotel's Bar Seine lounge is the popular place for hotel guests and locals for a night out. The lounge décor is mix of Moroccan, European and Asian influenced artwork and furnishing Staircases are a rarity in NYC hotel rooms, but the duplex suite has one that leads to this master bedroom with king-sized bed.

At the 1,900 square feet, the duplex suite occupies the 16th and 17th floor of the hotel and comes with the views of the New York Skyline. Pictured here is the living room, which, in addition to a media room

At 1,900 square feet, the duplex suite occupies the 16th and 17th floor of the hotel and comes with views of the New York skyline. Pictured here is the living room, which, in addition to a media room and lounging area with a 32-inch flat Screen TV, comes with a fully equipped Kitchenette with microwave, stove, refrigerator and Nespresso machine. There's also a half-bathroom.

The marble master bathroom is just off the master bedroom and has dual sinks, a separate shower, deep soaking tubs and Bvlgari bathroom amenities.

The hotels Valmont Spa is popular with guests and features massages, facials, body wraps, reflexology, manicures, pedicures and make-u application.

The Penthouse Duplex Suite's indoor-glass enclosed atrium terrace features comfortable seating and flat screen TV.

